"The Chaperons" at English's,

"The Chaperons," a new musical comedy, presented at English's last night, is full of smart comment and its players contribute some new ideas in burlesque. Eva Tanguay the asylum. She was Phrosia, the girl deof the man that had wronged her. He wore a clerical costume and when he saw a good-looking woman he said aside, "Not bad, not bad," and put his arm around her waist. It so happened that the women he met in the play were not of the sort to resent his familiarity and he prospered, so that when at last he engaged a beautiful reception yesterday afternoon himself to Miss Friganza she promised not

He and the chorus men sang the brigands' songs from "Fra Diavolo" and "The Pirates of Penzance" and pleased the audience not only by the fun, but also because the music of the old operas is so much better than that heard in the latter-day musical shows. The cleverest song of the show was "The Little Girl That Couldn't Say No." sung with charming demureness by Nellie Follis and with comic innocence by Mr. Jones. The hest musical feature was a chorus, "We're all good fellows," sung without the orchestra by Albert Farrington and the other

> An attempt is being made in the Probate Department to prove that Frank Wenger was under the undue influence of saloon keepers when he made his will and that drunkenness unbalanced his mind. Wenger had an estate of about $4,000 and left $500 each to two saloon keepers of West Washington street and $100 to the uncle of one of them. The Wenger family is attempting to prove that Wenger was an habitual drunkard and hanger-on about saloons and that he was under the influence of the saloon keepers when he made his will.

DEMAND FOR $2,500.

George W. Jewell Says He Gave Up a Position Paying $3,100 a Year.

George W. and William C. Jewell yesterday filed suit against Joseph R. Cavanagh for $2,500 damages. They aver that they are advertising solicitors and agents, and that Cavanagh hired George Jewell to conduct the advertising department for two of his publications, the Interstate Travelers' Guide and the Commerce and Transportation Guide, agreeing to give the firm 50 per cent. of the proceeds. It is set out that George W. Jewell resigned a position paying him $3,100 a year and came to take charge of the advertising business for Cavanagh, but soon after his arrival Cavanagh refused to pay the firm 50 per cent. Because of the loss of his position, time and expense in coming to Indianapolis damages are demanded.

Maggie R. Lutes Makes Peculiar Charge Against Her Husband.

Maggie R. Lutes yesterday filed suit against her husband, John A. Lutes, for divorce. She alleges that he has failed to support her since their marriage. She avers that he mortgaged and encumbered the furniture her parents gave her when they were married and that he also took her watch and pawned it. She charges that he was capable of earning $10 a week, but that he would live in houses until the rent became due and move to other houses to avoid paying it, thus repeating the process, and that he also contracted grocery bills in the neighborhoods in which they lived and would not pay them.

Thomas G. Smith, Jr.'s, Complaint.

Thomas G. Smith, jr., a mechanical engineer, yesterday filed suit against Frank M. Andrews, supervising architect of the new Claypool Hotel, for $1,475.10, alleged to be due on a contract. He avers that Andrews agreed to employ him at $10 a day and give him 21/2 per cent. of the contract price for work he planned and directed in addition to his services as consulting engineer. The plaintiff says he prepared the plans for certain mechanical parts of the building and gave them to Andrews, and that Andrews then refused to carry on further negotiations with him, although bids were received and contracts let practically upon the specifications he prepared.

Frank Huffman, a discharged Philippine soldier, was locked up at police headquarters last night on a charge of drunkenness. He was at Dan Smith's saloon on North Illinois street last night and after becoming intoxicated told the bartender he had taken five grains of morphine. Dispensary doctors were called and they decided he was suffering from nothing but liquor. He was taken to police headquarters and there it was thought he was lead. Dispensary doctors again answered a call to attend him and convinced the police he was very much INJURY PROVED FATAL.

Susan Johnson, a Colored Woman,

Struck by a Car. Susan Johnson, a colored woman, sixtyfive years of age, was taken to the City Hospital yesterday suffering from a dislocated knee and a broken arm. She was picking up coal along the Big Four tracks and stepped upon the track behind an empty car. A switching engine crew was working on the same track and backed the car down upon her. The City Dispensary ambulance was called and she was removed to the hospital. It was not thought her injuries would prove fatal, but she died. evidently from internal injuries, an hour
